Nazi Germany is making lots of talk about seizing Czechoslovakia on the pretext that the Sudeten Germans inside that nation aren't getting a square deal—but the Nazis are really using the Czechoslovakia "crisis" as a smoke-screen to cover up their plans to seize the Polish Corridor and reunite East Prussia which is separated from the mother country by Poland's "corridor" to the sea.

Congress Finishes But No One Knows How Much Spent

Bitter Quarreling Marks Close of the 75th Session

MINTON IS CUT OFF
Newspaper Suppressionist Loses Plea for Additional Funds

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Friends and foes of the New Deal still were quarreling when the Seventy-fifth Congress adjourned Thursday night.

Before the senate quit at 8:22 p. m., an angry filibusterer deflected an attempt by Senator Minton (Dem., Ind.), administration supporter, to obtain $12,500 more for his Senate Lobby Committee.

The filibuster was led by Senator Burke (Dem., Neb.), who charged that Minton wanted to violate the freedom of the press by using the $12,500 to study certain newspapers.

Minton replied that the press had been unfair to the administration. He contended that an inquiry into its methods would "not invade the freedom of the press."

Burke had things all his way and finally Minton decided not to push his resolution.

"Soft Soap" Speeches
Despite many manifestations of ill-feeling in the house, the session adjourned with the usual speeches in which the members praised each other and themselves.

Chairman O'Connor (Dem., N. Y.) of the house rules committee praised Representative Snell (Rep., N. Y.), minority leader. Snell praised Speaker Bankhead. Bankhead praised Snell, and then praised the whole house.

"You cannot find anywhere in America finer cross section of patriotism, intelligence, devotion to duty and high character than you will find in the House of Representatives," he said.

A loud cheer went up, and a short time later the chamber adjourned, at 9:08 p. m.

Pages tossed paper into the air. "Are Making Progress"
Previously President Roosevelt had sent a message to "the Hill," saying that the session had resulted in much constructive legislation for the benefit of the people.

"Definitely," he said, "we are making progress in meeting the many new problems which confront us."

He apparently referred, among other things, to passage of wage-hour legislation, crop control and a renewal of the administration's spending-lending program, for which Congress voted $3,753,000,000 Thursday.

No One Knows How Much
Congress approved a $12,000,000,000 spending program—the biggest in America's peace time history—for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Appropriations experts said it would take a week to figure out exactly how much the money bills totaled, but that the figure probably was about $12,300,000,000. That compares with the $9,356,174,982 in 1937 and $10,580,833,165 in 1936, the previous record.

The relief money is expected to last only until March 1. Additional funds will have to be appropriated by the new congress for the remainder of the fiscal year.

Bailey in Doubt About "Spending"

"Isn't Sure" Pump Priming Will Help America to Recovery

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—Governor Bailey of Arkansas told interviewers Friday he "isn't sure" pump priming treatment will effect a cure of the country's economic ills.

No amount of government spending will bring prosperity unless the people as individuals do all they can to help beat the recession, Bailey added.

Peach Festival to Be Held on July 20

Third Annual Highland Peach Celebration for Nashville

NASHVILLE, Ark.—The board of directors of the Nashville Chamber of Commerce has decided that the third annual Highland District Peach Festival will be held on July 20 this year, which is estimated to follow closely the end of the harvest of the peach crop of the district. Because of the large crowd required to handle the harvest, Nashville's facilities are always taxed to the limit, and the festival during the harvest would be too great an undertaking with a crop such as this year's.

A committee on arrangements was named and instructed to have its plans completed by next Tuesday night, when the board will meet again. The plans will no doubt be even more elaborate than those for last year's festival, which attracted a crowd of about ten thousand visitors here.

Because of the great importance of the peach industry to the entire state, there is a state-wide interest in the festival each year. Arkansas enjoys the distinction of being the greatest peach growing district west of the Mississippi river, and for quality of its fruit, does not accord first place to any other section of the world. The principal peach section of the state, of

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

THE SUFFERING SERVANT
Text: Mark 15:22-27 and 29-39

Isaac Watts' great hymn, which the late Matthew Arnold called the greatest in the English language, begins:

When I survey the wondrous cross,
On which the Prince of glory died,
My richest gain I count but loss,
And pour contempt on all my pride.

Glory and tragedy are in the description of the crucifixion in that great hymn, and that is as it should be. The dying of Jesus on the cross is at once the most tragic and the most glorious of all events in history. But here, in this lesson, it is a distinctly human aspect of that event that is presented.

The title of our lesson is "The Suffering Servant." This is essentially what Jesus was in His life and in His death—the man of sorrows and acquainted with grief, manifesting in all that He did, and in all that man did to Him, the divine compassion and love that stops at nothing in its effort to redeem and save.

The human aspect of Christ's sufferings is further emphasized in the men who suffered with Him, a malefactor on either side. They were human, too. They felt the keen terror of the nails. But one is not so impressed with their situation or their suffering, for they were dying as many others have died under the operations of crude and raw justice, but a form of justice none the less.

The one malefactor rallied upon Jesus, mocking Him and saying, "If Thou be the Son of God, save thyself and come down from the cross." The other met his tragic death in a different spirit, realizing that he and his fellow were suffering justly but sensing the unity and the innocence of the Christ who hung upon the cross between them.

There in that sad hour were the raffish of humanity, calloused to human suffering or even rejoicing in it with what is called today a sadistic passion, railing upon Him, waging their heads, befouling their horrible execrations with a semblance of religion and reference to the temple. Uttering a deeper truth than they realized were those who said, "He saved others; himself He cannot save." They did not realize that it was that He might save others that He was unconcerned about saving Himself.

But there were others also surrounding the cross. There was the mother of Jesus and "the disciple whom Jesus loved." The mother had cherished in her heart from the day of His birth the momentous words concerning Him, but now in the hour of His sorrow and her own, followed all the way to the cross, burdened and anxious, but with the intensity and persistency of a love that endured to the end.

But it was and still is the Christ on the cross who is the central figure, the suffering Saviour, enduring all that He might fulfill the loving purposes of God, dying in a very real sense that men might live.

Peach Festival

course is in the Nashville-Highland district.

Nashville is expecting many thousands of guests at this festival, and will have a program that will be a credit to the state of Arkansas at large, and particularly to this, the peach capital of the west.

The board also named July 3 and 4 as days when Nashville and the peach district is inviting their friends from all over Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas and Oklahoma to make the pilgrimage to our wonderful peach orchards while the harvest is on.

Many people in sections that do not raise peaches are very desirous of seeing a perfect rehard with perfect crop of peaches, and this pilgrimage will give them this much desired opportunity. At that time our trees will be laden with ripening fruit; the more advanced peaches will be in their prime, and the orchards about Nashville will present a picture that will gladden the eyes of all who visit us at that time. A map will be prepared, showing the principal avenues of approach to all of the orchards, as well as suggesting many highways of travel for our visitors from all parts of the country.

Detailed plans for the events and activities of these two days will be worked out and announced next week.

FAY BAINTER

At the New

Eleanor Stewart, who enacts the leading feminine role in Republics thrill-packed twelve-episode serial, "The Fighting Devil Dogs," the first chapter of which opens Saturday at the New theater with a new chapter to be shown each Saturday for the next twelve weeks, is one Hollywood actress who doesn't sit around complaining about the hardships she was forced to endure to attain stardom. And for a good reason—there have been no hardships in her career worth mentioning; that is, unless you bring up the hard time she had convincing her parents that she should be allowed to enter motion picture work.

Eleanor's father and mother, staunch pillars of society in a large mid-western metropolis, frowned on the idea of their daughter entering pictures. They insisted that if she must go into theatrical work that she take up ballet dancing, or some other artistic endeavor. But Eleanor, who is a young lady of charm, personality and with a "way" about her—as film-goers who see her in "The Fighting Devil Dogs" will attest—was determined to become a screen actress and she painted word pictures for her doting parents that would have broken down a stranger—to say nothing of a proud mother and equally proud father.

Miss Stewart won her first film role in "Small Town Girl," a title over two years ago and since that time has appeared in many outstanding productions—graduating from "bit" roles to featured parts.

In "The Fighting Devil Dogs," a story of the U. S. Marines and their adventures, Miss Stewart furnishes love-interest for co-stars Lee Powell and Herman Brix. The supporting cast includes such well-known names as Forrest Taylor, Edmund Cobb, Hugh Sothern, Montagu Love and Ed Foster.

Producer Charles E. Ford and Associate Producer Robert Boche were in charge of production and direction was in the hands of co-directors Jack English and William Witney.

(on the Dawes and Young loans) whereby the interest rates of seven and 5½ per cent, which no longer have any justification whatever, will be reduced to a normal level."

Funk denounced political debts and disclaimed German legal, economic and moral responsibility for the Austrian state loans preceding Germany's annexation of Austria March 13.

In German eyes state or political debts are those, guaranteed by a central authority, which were incurred under compulsion or with ulterior political aims. Thus the Austrian state loans totaling 400,000,000 reichsmarks (approximately $100,000,000) are regarded by Funk as having been forced upon the former republic for "the political purpose of preventing the Anschluss of Austria with the Reich."

Financial circles estimated Americans were involved in the Austrian loans to the extent of about $20,000,000.

Payments due May 1 and June 1 on Austrian bond issues were defaulted and Great Britain, France, other guaranteeing nations and the Bank of International Settlements protested to Berlin.

Funk spoke at headquarters of Bremen's Chamber of Commerce. He extolled Nazi economic achievement and portrayed Germany as at the opposite pole from the United States in economic stability.

Recent international economic discussions," he said, "are characterized by an identical tendency, namely, fear of a new, serious crisis in world economy."

"Two economic areas become manifest in this connection as marked antipodes on the one hand the United States of America, which is described as virtually the center of disturbances, and on the other hand Germany, whose economy thus far has offered unbroken resistance to the new depression."

German steel production, he added, "is beginning to outdistance American production."

For 25 years George L. Weiss of Long Beach, Calif., rode the Pullmans as a traveling salesman. Then he retired—only to find that he couldn't sleep in an ordinary bed. So what did he do but build the complete sleeping car section shown above, right in his own home. Weiss is pictured making up the upper berth preparatory to catching some sleep in the manner to which he has become accustomed.

Today's Fashion Hint

Large Figure Can Be Cool As a Sea Breeze in This

Here's the slenderizing, softly detailed, new afternoon dress that so many large women have been asking for.

The smooth shoulders have gathers just below to make the bodice fit comfortably. The bodice has a soft quality without making it fussy. The skirt is slim at the hips and flares just a trifle at the hem. And, of course those full, short sleeves are cool as a sea breeze. So is the neckline, cut to a deep V.

It's the kind of dress that has a well-bred, costly look which can be achieved inexpensively by sewing it yourself and using Pattern 8215.

Wear it in silk crepe, georgette, chiffon or voile, and you'll be graciously, smartly dressed for every afternoon affair.

Pattern 8215 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4½ yards of 38-inch material, ½ yard of 18-inch lace for vestee and jabot.

The new Spring and Summer Pattern Book, 32 pages of attractive designs for every size and every occasion, is now ready. Photographs show dresses made from these patterns being worn; a feature you will enjoy. Let the charming designs in this new book help you in your sewing. The story of the day's founding is the tale of a young mother inspired by the sacrifices of her own father, who reared six children, after his wife's death, on an eastern Washington farm.

The young Mrs. Dodd, wife of an insurance agent, was inspired by the songs of the day—"Everybody Works But Father" and "Father, Dear Father, Come Home With Me Now."

Wants Official Status
She says she was inspired to create the Fathers' Day tribute during a Mothers' Day sermon. She suggested it to the pastor. He encouraged her, but she could get only two names to her petition to the Spokane ministerial association. Later, the association adopted the idea. It immediately received nationwide publicity.

The International Fathers' Day association was formed, and Mrs. Dodd was its president for many years. She now is honorary president.

The No. 1 project of the association now is to win official congressional recognition of Fathers' Day. A resolution to designate the third Sunday in June was introduced in Congress by Rep. Charles Leavy of Spokane.

Fathers' Day Idea Started by Mother

Sunday Will be the 28th Observance—Wants Official Status

By the AP Feature Service
SPOKANE, Wash.—The "mother" of Fathers' Day—a proud grandmother without an apparent gray hair—is happy over commercialization of the day. The woman who founded in 1910 the day to "remember father" is Mrs. John Bruce Dodd, a graduate of Chicago Art Institute and now vice president of an undertaking establishment.

Smiling, dark haired Mrs. Dodd looks forward to the June 19 observance in many parts of the world of the 28th Fathers' Day which she envisaged in memory of her own father as "an occasion for quiet tribute in churches and in homes—a day of sacred background."

"Gifts Make Jobs"
Mrs. Dodd thinks the nation-wide "commercialization" in business advertisements of her idea—even the jocular "buy it for dad and let him pay the bill" type—"has done a real good."

"It has focused attention on observance of the day," she commented, "and, best of all, it has created jobs in making gifts for the nation's fathers." Her moments of greatest joy, Mrs. Dodd says, come from the appreciative expressions of fathers who have been remembered.

Songs Irked Her
A red rose for the living and white for the dead are the tokens of the day. Observances are held now on a wide scale by churches, organizations and even by cities. Mrs. Dodd says the idea also has taken root in some

Schmeling Lets Louis Worry About Battle

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service
SPECLATOR, N. Y.—Mine host, Bill Osborne, who established this Adirondack resort as a famous training camp by bringing Gene Tunney here in 1926, tells you what Max Schmeling will do to Joe Louis in their return 15-round match at Yankee Stadium.

The gas station man asks, "Did you ever see that German look so good?" You get it in the grocery store, and in the little hut at night. Chipmunks hop out of their holes, and chatter, "Play Schmeling." The pine trees sigh it. Trout jump out of the blue waters of Lake Pleasant, and gurgle, "The Dutchman's a cinch." There are reports that the squirrels of Hamilton county have bet their last acorn on the Ferocious Frankfurter.

In other words, the entire atmosphere is drenched with utter confidence in Herr Moxie. There is absolutely no doubt in the minds of everybody at Speculator that June 22 will be a decidedly blue Wednesday for the Brown Bomber.

Louis' name is spoken with a soft reverence, not unlike the muted voices in a funeral parlor. Everybody here actually is sorry for the guy.

And speaking to Schmeling himself somehow clinches the convictions of the villagers.

It's Just a Breeze
With astonishing confidence and apparently simple faith, the Pretzel Pounder tells you:

"I crossed the Atlantic eight times... traveled 55,500 miles... waited two years for this second crack at Louis. You don't think I'm going to lose now, do you?"

"Two years ago I told everybody that Louis was an amateur. He hasn't improved much, but still I can't convince some people that I'll knock him out again."

"Everybody was sorry for me the last trip. The shoe is on the other foot this time. Now you can ask Louis the questions you asked me two years ago."

"They tell me that the poor negro boy is worried. Of course he's worried. He'll never get over what I gave him in our first fight. Fighters just don't recover from beatings like that. I suspect that he'll spend a restless night, June 21."

"When we met before, Louis was riding the crest of the wave. He had knocked out Levinsky, Carmen, and Buier. He considered himself invincible. He didn't know the meaning of the word 'faint.' When I first fainted him, he paid not the least bit of attention to it. All I got was a punch in the mouth in the way of a receipt. Louis believed he had it then. There is doubt in his mind now."

"I saw the biggest difference in him in the Tommy Farr fight. Farr had little or nothing. All he is is a lugger."

"Well, when he lunged at Louis, Joe's hands went up to protect the head that becomes so muddled when it is solidly hit."

Louis Falls for Feints
"That's exactly what I want him to do... fall for feints. For when Louis is protecting himself, he will be doing no damage to me."

"I've got the one thing with which to tick Louis... a straight right-hand punch to the head... and he knows that I'm not afraid to throw it."

"I've lived two years for this fight... and you know what I mean when I say 'lived.' No monkey shines. Just waiting... for Louis."

"I'm going to be the first man to win the heavyweight championship twice. The pine cones in the Adirondacks may fall with a thud in the fall, but right now they're clicking like castanets. 'Play Schmeling.'"

The Black Uhlan looks surprisingly good, declares that he feels better, and talks the best fight since John L. Sullivan ankle-kicked into bars offering to whip any man in the house.

Allen Row Stresses Need of a Central Authority for Umpires

Leagues Should Exchange Arbiters; Pitcher Can't Be Blamed When Red Flag Continually Waves in His Face

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service

For a business, which in the major leagues alone is evaluated at $40,000,000, baseball officials, particularly league heads, show an amazing lack of business and common sense.

The continuation of the Johnny Allen-Bill McGowan feud is something in the way of evidence.

There was no earthly reason for Will Harbridge, the rubber stamp at the head of the American League, assigning McGowan to umpire the Cleveland series in Boston.

Even Harbridge must have known that Allen and McGowan were something less than lodge brothers.

Since umpires' assignments are made from week to week, and made secretly, it would have been no public rebuke to McGowan had he been shunted elsewhere for a spell. Particularly with his waving a red flag in front of Allen, a $20,000-a-year pitcher, since 1933, and with the Cleveland club fighting to retain its lead.

Baseball is governed very stupidly. Ford Fitch certainly didn't cover himself with any pious last season in the ridiculous attitude he took when Dizzy Dean mouthed a few words about the incompetency of a National League arbiter, George Barr. When 'O' Diz refused to bow down to the Frickian ultimatum, he made the former radio announcer look like something less than Einstein.

Umpire Controls Pitcher's Destiny
An umpire controls a pitcher's destiny.

The better the pitcher, the more important it is that a competent arbiter is behind the plate.

Good pitchers are artists. They pitch to spoils with remarkable accuracy.

Their bread and butter depends upon an umpire being able to determine whether a pitch shaded the corner, or was low enough to be called a strike, and thus be effective... in the strike zone.

Carl Hubbell weakened under the pressure against the New York Yankees in the opening game of the world series last fall, not because of the dynamite of the Riffles' bats, but because Steve Basil was not calling low pitches strikes.

The Giants' famous left-handed pitcher has yet to complain, but Basil's decisions put him in the hole... forced him to come through the middle. And coming through the middle against the Joe McCarthy men who were, was like giving Hitler the Bronx cheer in Berlin. It wasn't healthy.

Of the four umpires assigned to the world series last October, Basil, an American League, was the only one who ever had officiated in the fashion show of baseball.

So he landed the important post of plate umpire, without getting a chance to acclimate himself to the difference in the major leagues and the tension of the money games.

Central Authority for Umpires Is Needed.

That was merely another indictment of the league heads... the ex-clerks, stenographers, and radio announcers who induced otherwise sensible baseball men to set them up as tin gods.

What baseball needs is a central governing authority for umpires.

If Johnny Allen can't get along with McGowan, why not send in another umpire? Allen can't very well row with them all.

And why shouldn't the two major leagues exchange umpires?

For instance, suppose Bill Klen and Dolly Stark of the National League had ankled into Fenway Park the afternoon that Allen renewed his feud with McGowan? Certainly, no red flag would have been waved in Allen's face. And when a pitcher has had three arguments in three different games with one umpire by early June, it is about time that someone in authority kept them apart.

But baseball succeeds in spite of those at its head, as the late Charley Elberts once remarked.

And I suppose that the hundreds of thousands of dollars invested in baseball is in no greater jeopardy today than it was when the famous old owner of the Brooklyn Dodgers made that sage remark.

Let 'er Buck!

"SHINE ON HARVEST MOON"

By Jack Norworth and Nora Bayes

JACK NORWORTH is a Philadelphia boy, who made good as a songwriter. He began as a blackface artist without even proper billing.

Norworth went back to "trouping" with a vaudeville skit, married his pianist and made a series of short films in Hollywood before double-features.

BIRTH OF A SONG

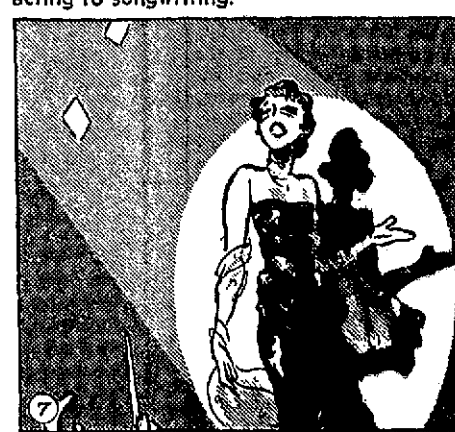

Many performers in those days wrote their own songs and patter. Jack wrote his "Moon" song through a harvest of clothes poles.

Norworth had forgotten his early song hit, but a little Texas orchestra fooled around with the tune and it began to show new signs of life.

He sang it with Nora Bayes in the Ziegfeld Follies of 1907, and the song caught on. It set Norworth over the borderline from acting to songwriting.

Ruth Etting picked it up from there, and when Norworth returned from a cruise he discovered that after 20 years he was again the author of a hit song.

Lookouts Take Game

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—Chattanooga's Lookouts splurged in the eighth inning Thursday night to take a game from Nashville, 8 to 6.

Tied five-all at the end of the seventh, Joe Engel's boys scored three runs in the eighth on three hits and a walk to assume an 8-to-5 lead that Nashville was never able to overcome.

The extremely slow game was played in two hours and 34 minutes.

Crackers Gain on Travelers by Taking Double Bill From Smokies

NEW ORLEANS, La.—The lowly New Orleans Pelican halted Garland Braxton, veteran left-hander, to slug out a 4-to-2 win over the league-leading Little Rock Travelers Thursday night, squaring the series. It was Braxton's second defeat of the season.

After being rapped for four runs and seven hits in seven innings, Braxton retired for a pinch hitter in the eighth. Joe Gonzales pitched the eighth for the Travelers and was nailed for three runs and two hits. The first of Pelican runs in the eighth, however, was unearned.

Russell (Red) Evans, who held the Travelers to six hits and Michael, Bird first baseman, were the hitting stars of the evening. Micheal slugged out a single and two home runs, batting in three runs. Evans whacked out three singles, driving in three runs.

Little Rock got only one runner past first after the fourth inning. Art Graham tripping to left center in the eighth after two were out.

A mental lapse by Michael, who more than made up for it later, accounted for the Travelers first run in the second. Alex Petruskin's fly to left in the fourth, scoring Nugal, fashioned Little Rock's last tally.

Three of the Travelers' six hits were obtained by Lindsey Deal, who singled on his first three trip to the plate.

It was a costly loss for the Travelers, shaving their league leadership from three and one-half to two games, as the second-place Atlanta Crackers won a double-header from the Knoxville Smokies.

Barons Beat Chicks
BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(AP)—The Barons bunched three runs in the eighth inning Thursday night to defeat Memphis, 3 to 2, in a series opener. Trailing by two runs in the eighth, McDougal singled, followed by walks for Thornton and Elvage. Then Bud Clancy hit a single to bring in McDougal and Thompson. Murray Howell came through with another single to score Elvage.

The Memphis got their scores in the third and fourth. Bush's double tamped down by Bates' single accounted for the first run. Reese tripled in the fourth and scored on Peerson's fly for the second.

Crackers Clout Five Homers
KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—The Atlanta Crackers mauled Knoxville's pitchers Thursday, rapping out five home runs and a barrage of doubles to win a double-header, 5 to 1 and 10 to 7.

After winning the opener behind Luman Harris' seven-hit pitching, Atlanta got off to a shaky start in the second game, the Smokies nicking Leo Moon and Bobby Durham for seven runs in the first inning.

Four circuit wallops, two by Manager Paul Richards and one each by Emil Mailho and Dynamite Dunn, erased the Smokies lead and put the Crackers out in front. Mailho also hit a homer in the opener.

Sting With Few Hits

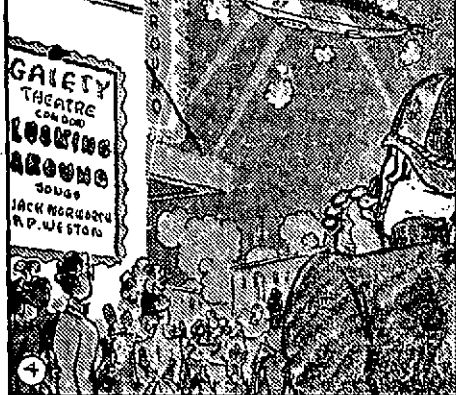

BONSON—"They called the Chicago White Sox of 1906 the Hitless Wonder, but we make them look like a murderers' row," says Casey Stengel, manager of the Boston Bees. The Beantowners, who bring up the rear of the National League team batting averages with .240, amaze everyone with their success.

"If we hit—we hit," asserts Casey. "If we don't hit—we don't hit."

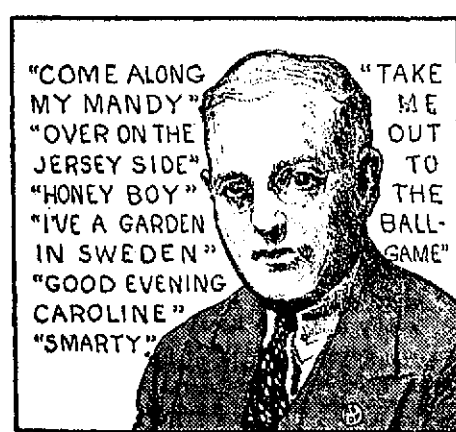

It's Stengel's own philosophy, and everyone seems to worry about it except the wisecracking pilot of the club's National League entry.

G-Man Hoover Gives Advice to Parents

Would Put Truthfulness First in Bringing Up a Family

J. Edgar Hoover, hero of every American boy and chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, gives a G-Man's advice to parents in an article by himself and Herbert Corey published in the current issue of Woman's Day Magazine.

Although a bachelor, there is probably no man in the United States better qualified to discuss children, for he has had more experience than any other person in the world with men who were brought up wrong as boys.

Mr. Hoover says the whole matter of good citizenship revolves around the single proposition of honesty, and for that reason he would put truthfulness first in dealing with a child. If he had a son, Mr. Hoover says, he'd tell him the truth, encourage him to join the Boy Scouts, have him go to church, give him duties to perform, and urge him to take part in good rough games.

"If I had a son, I'd swear to do one thing," Mr. Hoover writes in Woman's Day. "I'd tell him the truth. I'd never let him catch me in a lie because I wouldn't tell him any lies. I wouldn't skip the truth, either. That might be a trial at times, for little boys are sometimes very inquisitive and persistent. Some of the thousands who visit the display rooms of the Federal Bureau of Investigation will certainly

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

PLUME MOTHS HAVE WINGS RESEMBLING FEATHER FANS!

IN THE UNITED STATES, IT IS POSSIBLE NOW TO CUT NO MORE LUMBER FOR HOME CONSUMPTION THAN THAT WHICH GROWS EACH YEAR.

RED hail is caused by fine dust in the atmosphere, blown up from red soil, and frozen into the hailstones. Red rain and snow have been quite common occurrences in the past few years, when red soil from the Oklahoma dust bowl was carried into the atmosphere by high winds.

grow up to be cross-examiners.

"This matter of the whole truth is doubly important because every boy is a hero-worshiper. His inclination is to look up to his father as head of the house, a repository of all knowledge, the universal provider, the right-eous judge. He cannot do so if he's continually catching his father in half-truths. A liar is a weakling and a boy admires strength. No matter how difficult it might be, I'd tell my boy the truth.

"And in return I'd insist that he tell the truth. That might be hard to enforce. But though some scientists have said that all children are born liars, it's certain that the courageous telling of truth is a character-building. If my son broke a rule and told the truth I wouldn't punish him. But if he tried to take advantage of me by covering deliberate mischief with a cloak of truth I'd show him that's cheating—and penalize him for it.

"Each year a parade of rogues passes under the eyes of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. They're of all sorts—handsome, old, young, rich, ragged, plausible, murderers, thieves, forgers. They're alike only in one thing: They're all liars.

"The whole matter of good citizenship revolves around the simple proposition of honesty. A truthful boy is an honest boy. And an honest boy grows into a successful man. A thief can't be truthful; he can't afford to be. Mickey the Mucker, around two corners and down a back street, wouldn't be a hero and a leader to my boy, but an unpleasant kid with bad manners and vile speech and a habit of telling lies."

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

SHOOT 'EM IN SERIES

"Wonder could I chew my way out of here? ..."

"Mmmm—it's a funny taste ..."

ANYBODY can take a single snapshot—a landscape here, an informal portrait there. But have you ever tried taking a series, to tell a complete story of an incident, or to picture a person more effectively?

Summer activities offer all sorts of chances for series pictures. Whenever there is fun—a party, a picnic, a motor trip, an afternoon at the swimming pool or beach—you find amusing occurrences which are best pictured thus. One picture tells part of the story. Several pictures "follow through" and tell all of it.

The incidents don't have to be unusual. Good "fun" series can be made out of the cutting of a watermelon, a small boy blowing up a balloon until it bursts. Try picturing a child's tea party in this fashion—the small girl playing hostess to her dolls and pets. Also, try "expression" snaps of the baby in his outdoor crib.

Sports series are good. For instance, a man catching a fish. Show him baiting, casting, playing the fish, landing it, dropping it into the creel or threading it on the string. Later on, snap a picture to complete the series—the fish on the table at home, or the fisherman back at his office, describing his catch.

The series-picture idea can be applied in a thousand variations. Series pictures have extra "punch," because each picture supports and reinforces the next. A series of five good expression shots of the baby—laughing, crying, "crowing," questioning, shouting, and so on—is better than five unrelated shots.

One picture may be just a paragraph, but a series is a complete short story. Try such picture stories this summer. Nature stories are good, if you have a focusing camera, or a portrait attachment for your box camera. For example, picture a squirrel accepting a nut, — taking enough pictures to tell the complete story.

Not bad, though, at that ...

"Heh! I was only kidding. I really like it in here!"

Don't miss series pictures this season. They're immense camera fun!

Electric Organ at Gospel Tabernacle

Special Musical Program Is Planned for Services Next Sunday

A Hammond electric organ has been installed in the Gospel Tabernacle for next Sunday by the Beasley Music Co. of Texarkana, and an electric organ artist secured to play for both the morning worship service at eleven o'clock and the night evangelistic service at 8. A fifteen minute sacred program will be played beginning at 7:45 Sunday night.

The younger Mr. Beasley of the Beasley Music Co. personally invites the people of Hope to come and enjoy the special organ day at the Gospel Tabernacle.

The Hammond electric organ is reported to be the finest musical instrument modern science has produced. It is swiftly taking a deserved place in the leading musical centers of the world. There will be no charge for any of the services or concerts on Sunday.

Special orchestra and vocal music will augment the organ numbers, according to the pastor, Rev. Bert Webb. The general public is invited to all the services on Sunday.

Here's how to learn: Read the advertisements in your newspaper! They're a reliable guide to better buying.

No merchant will risk his time-earned reputation by advertising inferior goods. Today's shoppers buy advertised goods with confidence — and with saving!
